Now we are ready to start. Listen carefully. You will hear the recording twice.

Woman: Hello, Matt. Is your mum there? It's auntie Pamela.

Matt: Hi. Yes, but she's rather busy. She's reading a difficult textbook about how to write a good story.

Woman: Can I speak to your dad then?

Matt: Erm, sorry, no. His boss emailed him and told him to read something on an important website. So he's doing that at the moment.

Woman: Well, how about your brother?

Matt: He's reading a message from his friend about their examination.

Woman: And your sister?

Matt: Oh, she's on her mobile. I think she's reading all her text messages and putting some new names and addresses in her address book.

Woman: OK, well can I speak to your uncle? Is he there?

Matt: Yes, but he's reading in the garden. He's reading his motorbike magazine. He reads a lot, but not newspapers. He isn't interested in those.

Woman: Well, can I talk to your cousin?

Matt: He's reading too, so I'm not sure. It's his birthday today and he's reading a comic that I gave him!

Woman: And your grandfather?

Matt: He's busy too. Sorry. He bought a new MP3 player and he's reading the instructions! He's going to put all his CDs on it.

Woman: And what are you doing?

Matt: Nothing! Can I help?

Woman: No, because now I can't remember why I phoned...
